Note. Scores are based on the Student Evaluation of Learning and Feedback for Instructors (SELFI) online assessment administered by the University of North Dakota. The score provided, ranging from 1 (negative) to 5 (positive), is the total composite score comprised of ratings on seven factors including learning, engagement, organization and clarity, learning environment, individual rapport, graded materials, and overall opinion of the course. The instrument is administered late in the semester, after course withdrawals have occurred. A more detailed breakdown of these results is available upon request. Indiana University of Pennsylvania utilized a different instrument that does not provide a single composite score.
